And through the instrumentality of this and the enterprise of the never-tiring hand of its principal, the work has been commenced and shall be carried on upon a magnificent scale, beyond peradventure to mistake. and relying upon my past experience and present knowledge in the business and the good sense of a discerning public for my future weal or woe. It will be my purpose this Fall to exhibit a large attractive and commanding stock of Goods, such as will suit the special wants of the trade, and to dispose of them in every instance in such a manner as will reflect credit upon myself

Before the close of the present season, I shall offer large invoices of desirable goods and intend and promise to have the prices in all cases a shade lower than any other establishment.

"Well, Mr. Jones," said neighbor Brown, "I'll start this very day for town, and get a pair of Boots for me."

And also shoe my family.

So Bill you go and harness Doll, and straight to town will go, by god, and stop in front of Smith's Store Where the Boots hang o'er the door.

Bill always does what father tells.

He harnessed Doll and put on Belle, and in they piled young ones and all, Crack went the whip and off went Doll.

Doll had been living on high feed, And started at her fastest speed, And took Brown and his family straight, To Paw Paw at two-forty gait.

Whoa, Whoa, old Doll, Bill cried out when They got to Main Street, Number Ten. And out they jumped in front the door, of Post Smith's Mammoth Store.

In they went with a awful swell, "Good morning, hope to find you well, Said Brown as he and his young drove Advanced to warm them at the stove.

My neighbor Jones brought me the news How cheap you sold your Boots and Shoes, So I resolved to come and buy Of you my winter's fall supply.

To shoe the tribe, Smith began, Beginning first with the old man And then the young Brown's little feet. Were shod and fitted all complete.

The news soon spread the county round. That just the place at length was found Where men could save fifty per cent. On every dollar that they spent.
